

I'm writing to state my objections to any interference with Indiana's telephone privacy law. Like most, I work long hours and detested the constant interruptions at night by unsolicited callers. In our current economy, there is very little that Indiana's state government has been able to implement for Hoosiers that positively affects our lives. This law is a rare exception and a godsend; we noticed the difference immediately upon implementation. Please do not send us back into "solicitation hell".
